

Caitlin Andujar

Development Officer

Zoo New England

Hello! I am Caitlin Andujar and I recently transitioned into the Development Department as a Development Officer at Zoo New England. I started my career with the zoo at Stone Zoo as the Afterschool Programs Assistant. I thankfully continued working at the zoo for many years and became the Education Manager at Franklin Park Zoo up until my recent change.

Before entering the zoo world I spent several months working at the Cheetah Conservation Fund in Namibia. I worked closely with endangered cheetahs and livestock guarding dogs that work to protect them. This is where I learned the vital role that education plays in conservation and wanted to continue with that work. With my years of zoo and education experience, I am hoping to use that knowledge to better educate a new audience about ZNE's work through development.
